John Andrews will cover, with lavish images, classical iridology with modern iridology research findings and his own extensive clinical experience to enhance our understanding of both the immune & endocrine systems in terms of iridology, forms of testing & therapeutic guidelines.

Until the publication of John's books below, both the immune & hormonal systems had limited information studied & covered in iridology.

Iridology has an enormous amount to offer in terms of identification, clarification and therapeutic priority for the immune & endocrine systems and the interaction of these in connection to stress and mind-body medicine from the basis of psycho-neuro-endocrino-immunology (PNEI).

We will examine, with the latest digital iris images, the following areas, how they integrate with the hormonal & immune systems; and how we can apply them practically to prioritize and simplify our analysis for the patient/client:

- Iris Signs - modern interpretations of the lacuna, crypts & Transversals
- Collarette (ANW) Integrity & Structure
- Iris Pigmentation
- Classical & Modern Iris Topography
- Pupillary Zone Signs
- The Pupil
- Inner Pupillary Border Tissues (IPB)
- Conjunctival Vessels
- Mammilations
- The Axis in Iridology
- Genetics & epigenetics
- Stress & PNEI Interactions
- Other Forms of Functional Tests for Iris Signs
- Natural Therapeutic Protocols for Endocrine & Immune Conditions
- The Most Important Iris Signs

John Andrews is internationally recognised as a modern iridology pioneer and researcher and practices in Yorkshire, England, integrating physiotherapy, PNEI, nutrition, homotoxicology with modern iridology. He is the author of seven iridology textbooks, including the books "Endocrinology & Iridology" in 2006 & "Immunology & Iridology" in 2003 & has written over 20 iridology research papers & 22 Instructional iridology CDs. His contributions to the advancement of iridology include the Emotional Dynamics of the Collarette Chart, the new pupillary zone embryological topography, the Immune Cell, PNEI & Collarette Chart & pure brown iris research.

John is a dynamic and informative keynote speaker, lecturing on five continents. He has been the recipient of five international awards in recognition for his outstanding contributions to modern iridology from 2004 to 2011. He is the editor of the Advanced Iridology Research Journal & acts in an advisory role for many iris research initiatives currently active around the world. During 2011 the new Cellular Iridology Chart and Modern Iridology Iris Chart, based on new research, will both be published.

Seminar Aims

The aims of this seminar are to provide an integration of established & modern information in terms of the axis of the endocrine system, immune system & iridology. The material will be lavishly illustrated, of which each attendee will have a copy, but explained in a very dynamic, digestible and understandable form. It is the sincere intention that you will be inspired & informed by the seminar and be able to apply the information in your clinic the next week, in addition to having an enduring reference source of new material for the endocrine & immune systems.
